CANNON BILL PASSED BY OVERWHELMING VOTE

House Adopts Prohibition Measure as Amended in Committee—Ballot Resulted in 39 Ayes, 4 Nays and 2 Absent and Not Voting—Filibustering by Opposition is Lead by H. A. McMillin.

FOR PROHIBITION—N. G. Miles, William Archibald, E. C. Nelson, L. L. Baker, Hoxton Burnett, H. H. Bunce, J. J. Cannon, Belgium Clegg, C. R. Jordan, E. J. Eardley, Thomas Eurkland, G. A. Fuller, C. L. Funk, F. B. Hammond, Martin Jensen, A. F. Hancock, W. E. Hayes, J. N. Hawie, Joseph Hodges, J. M. Bell, W. S. Hansen, V. M. King, J. R. McCrosky, William McMillan, D. H. Morris, J. M. Murdock, H. A. Nelson, Francis Nielson, T. J. Pomeroy, R. M. Pope, J. H. Porter, H. P. Randall, C. J. Smith, G. I. Thompson, J. W. Thomsley, J. A. C. Webber, C. H. White, J. H. Wootton and Spencer F. W. Robinson.

AGAINST PROHIBITION—T. J. Robson, H. A. McMillin, Daniel McRae and Cloud Y. Russell.

ABSENT—J. N. Davis, P. P. Dyreng.

After a debate occupying three and a half hours, the house of representatives of the legislature of Utah passed the Cannon prohibition bill by a vote of 39 for, 4 against, and absent 2.

On the final vote, however, Robinson and McRae, who voted against the measure, changed their votes to aye, in order to move a reconsideration of the vote on Monday next.

The fireworks started immediately after the adoption of Thompson's motion that the report of the majority of the judiciary committee on the prohibition be adopted. Filibustering tactics were begun by the opponents of the measure, and when the proposition came up to read the petitions which had been presented before the house both for and against the bill, Representative Hansen moved that the petitions be read in full, and every signature be included in them. An enormous pile, passing between Clerk Funk and Speaker Nelson, was then produced, and the reading of the petitions by title, and Hansen then followed, Hansen stating that "as a matter of fact, Clegg knows but little about petitions, and accused him of having played to the grandstand." Clegg resented this insinuation, and Thompson took up the cudgel against Hansen, accusing the latter of using tactics for delaying the consideration of a vital bill, and he pled that the house "do not delay, but do your duty" at once. As there were 71,000 signatures appended to petitions favoring prohibition, and 13,762 opposed, the motion to have the names read was lost.

McMILLIN'S PRINT.

Representative Hugh A. McMillin offered the first substitute amendment, to the effect that "no other beverages" be included in the first paragraph, which would have the effect of prohibiting the manufacture or sale of any kind of beverage. McMillin claimed to be "repeating the Mormon law word for word, but did not intend to pay any attention to their wishes in voting for the bill, but would vote according to his own conclusions in the matter."

Representative Cannon raised a point of order against McMillin's taking the floor, and McMillin said that he would get back, and stated that an office and its wife and children are in many the sale of those beverages would be prohibited." McMillin also suggested that paregoric be included in the list.

Representative Cannon then offered an amendment, permitting druggists and dentists in each county to establish dispensaries where prescriptions shall be filled that the health of their patient required them to drink a time-honored toddy upon prescription.

Representative Hansen the amendment, saying that he objected to the opening of a "back door speakeasy."

ARCHIBALD'S POSITION.

Representative William Archibald of Summit then took the floor and made a stirring address of 10 minutes' duration in favor of passing the bill. Among other things, Representative Archibald said: "We do not need whisky for medicinal purposes. I have been taught by medical men that there are other drugs which serve the same purpose as liquor. I do not want to see whisky sold. I do not ask for the passing of prohibition, but as how is it it is denied to me, without any special privileges to anybody. I ask for the passing of the amendment."

Robson said he assured the floor to discuss the amendment. He said he was a "lawyer in the vocabulary" and the amendment was inconsistent with the position taken by the men who advocated prohibition. The rule on that amendment declared Tolman, "will show just how consistent some of the members are on this question."

Representative Joseph J. Cannon then talked in favor of the amendment offered by him. He said that while there is a doubt, one medical man of the real need of liquor as a medicine, yet he was of the opinion that there ought to be a place designated, where under proper restriction, it could be purchased.

The amendment was then voted down by a clamorous "No."

STILL PROVIDES PUNISHMENT.

Representative Clegg then moved to strike out section 12 of the bill, which provides that "any person who violates this act shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court." This amendment was voted down.

An amendment offered by H. A. McMillin, to strike out section 11 was lost. The section provides that a violation of the act shall be a misdemeanor and punishable under the act.

Representative Cannon offered an amendment prohibiting the sale of alcohol for mechanical purposes, which carried.

McMillin was not yet through. He stated that a prohibition bill, H. B. 15, and been presented by him, and claimed that the measure had not yet been considered by the committee. He that rather than let the bill die in the committee, the motion failed by a vote of 19 to 24.

McMillin then moved that the enacting clause of the Cannon bill be stricken out, and that H. B. 62, by Pope, restricting the sale of liquor, be substituted. The motion failed.

Representative Clegg moved an amendment permitting druggists to sell liquor for medical purposes only, but the motion failed.

Representative Thompson moved that the bill be recommitted to the judiciary committee, and notwithstanding the objections of Robson, this was done. The vote was taken by which the bill passed by an overwhelming majority.

The house at 6 o'clock adjourned until 2.30 o'clock Monday.

While the discussion of the bill was in progress and while the vote was being taken, the members of the senate were assembled preparatory and listeners. Their appearance at this time was due to the fact, not the result, merely as visitors, occasional quite a little comment in the house and on the streets after the adjournment.

THE BILL AS PASSED.

Following is the Cannon prohibition bill as it passed the house yesterday:

An act to prohibit the manufacture, sale, barter, giving away or otherwise disposing of alcohol or drinks within the state, providing for the enforcement of the provisions of this act together with penalties for the violation of the same, repealing sections 1247 to 1256-XI, inclusive, relating to intoxicating liquors, and provision of chapter 107, of the laws of the state of Utah, 1907, and all other laws and parts of laws.

Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Utah:

Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person, individual or corporate, to manufacture, sell, barter, give away or otherwise dispose of, in the state, any alcoholic liquor or drinks, and any purchaser of any such liquor, either in person or by sign, circular, letter, card, price list, or otherwise, or any agent, or any contribute publish or display any advertisement of any person to sell any such alcoholic liquor may be manufactured, sold, bartered, given away, or otherwise furnished, or to have the same in his possession for sale, shall be guilty of a violation of this act. A violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be a misdemeanor.

Sec. 2. Nothing in this act shall prohibit the use of such liquor, as used in this act, shall be construed to include any alcoholic, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or any mixture containing or combining therefor or compound of any kind or description whatsoever, which shall be intoxicating or not, which combine any alcohol as ingredient, or beverage, or drink.

Sec. 3. Nothing in this act shall prevent the use of any such intoxicating liquor for art, scientific, or mechanical purposes.

Sec. 4. Every person who shall within this state directly or indirectly keep or maintain by himself or by agent, lease or employ, with others, any clubroom or other place in which any liquor, wine, ale, beer, or drink for the purpose, or other place in which any liquor, wine, ale, beer, or drink shall be sold, or in violation among the members of any club or association, or any other place whatsoever, and every person who shall sell, give away, or in any other manner furnish, distribute or divide any such liquor, wine, ale, beer, or drink, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 5. Any person who may have in his possession any such liquor in violation of this act, shall be construed to be prima facie evidence of the violation of the provisions of this act, and the officer seizing the same, shall keep the same, and to make return thereof, with a report of the facts, showing all acts and things done pertaining to the seizure, to the department of alcoholic liquor school, of the county in which the same shall be found, together with the vessels in which the same shall be found, and if no person be found in the possession of the premises, the officer shall make so state. It shall be the duty of such officer, upon the report of the county attorney of the county his acts and proceedings, and if the facts so reported authority the county attorney to institute a proceeding for forfeiture, and if the same be found to be in violation of this act, the officer seizing the same shall destroy the same, and the vessels in which the same shall be found, together with the vessels in which the same shall be found, shall be forfeited to the state of Utah, and shall be sold by the county attorney of the county in which the same shall be found, together with the vessels in which the same shall be found, and to make return thereof, showing all acts and things done pertaining to the seizure, to the department of alcoholic liquor school, of the county in which the same shall be found, together with the vessels in which the same shall be found, shall be forfeited to the state of Utah, and shall be sold by the county attorney of the county

THE CANNON BILL AND THE SENATE

Unit of Ten Is Recognized in Opposition to Prohibition Measure.

THE COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENT

Bill When Transmitted from House May Go to Kuchler or Joint Committee Having Gardner's Act.

With the entire membership of the Utah legislative assembly embody a holiday idea, this portion of it belonging to the upper house is resting before the courts of its cause. The prohibition bill will probably come to that body Monday.

Persistent lobbying, a large rush trend, many elaborate dinners, much of that beguiling "these concerns be friends" and a mass of pressure that has held "sovereign" from every political direction has preceded the opening of the prohibition warfare in the senate. The hope of the odious interests now is that the servitude, whose end they are silent on the question, may be postponed, if not, the decision reached rests upon that the house committee of the Orphanim theater last night, Mr. Jake Morris, an actress, will attempt to undo the bill in the upper body.

THE STALWART TEN.

Speaking to be hadly asserted, has attended the efforts of the saloon forces to throw up a temporary barrier. This is in the form of a meeting of a "stalwart ten," who, it is declared, have pledged an agreement among these fellows to vote on any measure the prohibition bill and thus prevent the passing of the bill. Another explanation for this attitude is the decree that prohibition is a hysterical fever, that the thousands who want it are not an old citizens but fanatics, that a good conservative and conservative measure is the end of their heart's desire, and that for this they will vote.

This means that the ten-unit, if it prevails, will force a compromise measure or it can, and that the measure will then have to go back to the house for its approval, and then it will vote it or not to be another fine.

WHO ARE THEY?

Who are in the league of 10? They will by a barrier political name themselves, and scorn any imputation that it is a league. It is said with the saloon in a position to demand protection. Several names have been used in that connection. How firm the allegiance of each of them is not, of course, certained, but it is precisely certain that some of the names used in this, that beyond a short time, will be in the hands of Miller, Wilson, Hersley, Burton and Wetzel. Some of these names are will and friends of a prominent order.

Monday probably the bill will come in as a report, city, town or dismiss. On that day it will be merely referred to a committee either to Kuchler or "another-her-quick" committee, or to the joint committee to which it was also submitted his administration measure, the Gardner commission bill, is therefore, owing to the absence of Senator N. Smith.

To get the bill out of committee against the tactics of an opposition whose chief weapon will be to insist upon methods to obtain delay, will be the strong proposition before the senate. After that it will be to break down the "one unit" strategy of defeatists on questions. Before the end of next week the senate should have reached a decision.

TAXATION LEGISLATION.

Three Measures Are Introduced by Budger by Request.

Senator Carl A. Budger, by request, introduced three bills in the senate yesterday afternoon which deal with the collection and disbursement of taxes and provide that the proceeds of the special appropriation bill be as follows:

"If issued in accordance of paying improvements, in 40 equal installments; for land on account of sidewalk, curbs, grading or earthing and gathering improvement, in 10 equal installments. Said warrants shall indicate the time when each installment is due and provide that interest, at the rate of six per cent per annum, on such warrants, shall be paid by the property at the time each installment is due, and that the city or finance to pay any installment at the time the same is payable, the property shall be sold to said time shall drew interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, and that one or more installments in the order in which they are payable, and the said warrant may be issued on the day and the proceeds thereof, shall be used for the purpose thereof and indicated in date of payment."

The second reading with sidewyspy is as follows:

"The width of all public highways, except bridges, alleys, lanes and trails, shall be at least 66 feet, the width of all private highways and by-roads, except bridges, shall be at least 33 feet, provided that nothing in this title shall be construed to prevent the laying out of highways of a greater kind of highway already established or used as such, provided further, that nothing in this title contained shall prevent cities of the first and second class from the fine out, establishing, opening or re-opening the following of streets, alleys, ways, boulevards and alleys of any width uttered some introductory remarks following the pulpit of the Assembly Room.

He was followed by President Roosevelt who, after a few remarks putting forth his sympathetic appreciation which was seized by Nicholas Roosevelt, of Hoboeville, and the chairman called into place.

ROOSEVELT'S EULOGY.

We have met here to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the birth of one of the two greatest Americans, one of the two or three greatest men of the nineteenth century and perhaps the greatest men in the world's history. Lincoln's life, like that of him who passed his nightly youth in the cabin poverty of the poorest of the frontier folk, where fire was he weary and painful labor lived to lead his people through the burning flames of a struggle from which the nation emerged purified as by fire, born anew to a loftier life. After long years of iron effort, out of failure, he was at last often thought, by at least one to be the leading man of the republic, at the moment when that leadership had become the stupendous world-task of the time. He grew in strange greatness, and never ease. Success came to him, but never happiness, ease that which springs from doing with a cheerful and a vital task. Success was but the pleasure. The furrows deepened on his face, the lines of care and sorrow and anxiety bent his form, the great shoulders were bowed, but his steel there never faltered as he bore for a burden the destinies of his people. His gentle tender heart shrank from giving pain, and the task allotted him was to pour out his soul under the life-blood of the young men, and to call to his every labor the service of strangers. Disaster endeavored but never dismayed him. Hatred and bitter war sent by they fiends he ever doing his duty in the present, ever facing the future with serene front high of heart, and dauntless of soul. Unknown he hated, unshaken he stood, he worried and suffered for the people. Triumph was his at the last, and hardly had he lived it before murder found him, and the kindly, patient, fearless eyes were closed forever.

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN.

As a people we are indeed beyond measure fortunate in the chancelors of the two greatest of our public men, Washington and Lincoln. Which though they differed in externals, the Virginia landed gentleman, and the Kentucky backwoodsman, they were alike in essentials, they were alike in the great qualities which renndered each of them the instrument of a mighty and to all succeeding ages, the inspiration of his generation could or did render. Each had lofty ideals, each in striving to attain these lofty ideals was guided by the common sense. Each possessed in overlaw courage in adversity, and a soul wholly unspoiled by prosperity. Each possessed all the gentler virtues commonly exhibited by good men who lack rugged strength of the strong. Each possessed all the strong qualities commonly exhibited by those low-lying numbers of humanity who have too often shown themselves devoid of or much as the understanding of the words by which we signify the qualities of duty, of mercy, of devotion to the right, of lofty disinterestedness in battling for the good of others. There have been other men as great and other men as good, but in all the history of mankind there are no other men great men as good as these two.

either two good men as great. Widely though the problems of today differ from those of Washington's day the spirit in which he faced his problems is the spirit in which he faced his problems today, and the spirit in which he solved them and the spirit in which he showed in meeting these problems are exactly the same as those we should show in doing our work today.

LINCOLN'S PROPHETIC IMAGINATION.

Lincoln was into the future with the prophetic imagination which enabled him to see the part which he was destined to play. He saw the great issues of his time with the prophetic vision of a statesman, and the practical sagacity of the practical man and healthy to defer in practical fashion for the realization of an ideal. He had the practical man's hard common sense and willingness to adapt means to ends, but there was in him some of that morbid growth of mind and soul which blinds so many practical men to the higher things of life. He was a practical man of business, but he was also a backwoods idealist. He had nothing in common with those practical men whose consciences are warped until they fail to distinguish between good and evil, to fail to understand that strength, ability, shrewdness, whether in the world of business or of politics, only serve to make their possessor a more noxious, a more evil member of the community, if they are not guided and controlled by a fine and high moral sense.

LINCOLN'S EXAMPLE.

We of this day must try to solve many social and industrial problems, resulting to an especial degree the conditions of industrial evolution with the cool-headed sanity. We can profit by the way in which Lincoln used both these traits as he strove for reform. We can profit by his example in the bitter attacks which following that course brought upon his head, attacks alike by the extremists of revolution and by the extremists of conservatism, he steadily wavered in direction to his principles, he steadily refused to be drawn off from the course he chose. Time and the verdict of history have always demonstrated that the man who has courage and has a quarter of fact to never went to the extremes, and also that men who because of this the extremists hated and denounced as a traitor to his cause, seem to us fantastic in its detail, critics of the time and of the immediate future. At the very time when one side was holding him up to the opprobrium of revolution because he was against slavery, the other was denouncing him because he was a friend of slavery. Time has vindicated him as the "man of moderation" and has given the second time endorsement to the principles of both the opponents anti-slavery. Time has given to each those who wished to go forward too fast, at the very time that he overrode the opposition of those who wished not to go forward at all. The great man never dies before his time, but he picked his way cautiously, without either halt or hurry, as he stood toward it, through each a morass of difficulty that no man of less courage would have attempted it while it would surely have overwhelmed any man of inferior less stamina.

A VALIANT FIGHTER.

Yet perhaps the most wonderful thing of all, and from the standpoint of the American people and of the time, the most vitally important, was the extraordinary way in which his genius could fight valiantly against what he deemed wrong and yet preserve unshaken his love and respect for the broader side of the opposite. He was by fear of a triumph that would have turned any weaker man's head, he was fear of a struggle which spurred many a good man to despair, he was fear, he said truthfully that so long as he had been in his office he had never spoken, planned a single thing for the benefit of his friends, or any supporters to enjoy the benefits of the trial through which they were passing as philosophy from which to learn wisdom and not as wrongs to be avenged; ending with the plea of charity for all, for the death-tear over, all should reunite in a common effort to serve their common country.

GREAT AND TERRIBLE DAYS.

We lived in days that were great and terrible, when brother fought against brother for what each deemed the right to be the right. In a civil war such as this there is no quarter can carry it through, very rarely also do the justice to the deep convictions of those with whom they are engaged in warfare. At such times men are through a glass darkly; to many the necessary and bitter rights is concealed that clear vision which alone can come to all, even to the latter, as the struggle fades into memory, and wounds are forgotten, and peace creeps back to the heart-sick land, then we can see that the right was on the side of the victorious party.

Yet the victorious party has differed from the vanquished in no adequate to its strong, gentle nature, but his success was in a sense a misfortune in needed no bolstering of dark passions. He was clearly that the noble high qualities, the same courage, and with figures to overcome, the same devotion to the right as it was given them to see the right, helped and led the people of the north and the men of the south. As the years sped by and he saw the wrong, he steadily grew more and more sorrow, offer of the men of the south. He knew the time and the men who were the guy, as the whole nation learned to see, a peculiar sense of pride in the nightmare of the nation, he understands the mighty days; the lover of his country and of humanity, the man whose blood was shed for the union of his people and for the freedom of his race, Abraham Lincoln.

The President yielded to Gov. Wilson who spoke on behalf of Kentucky for her greatest son.

Gov. Grant Wilson, for the Federal army, and Gen. Lucius W. Wright for the Confederate army, were then heard at extreme length, and the meeting was adjourned at a train at 2:30 o'clock, leaving the speakers of the day and others who had written and had been invited, such as William H. Taft in April delivers the completed memorial bell, were called.

DISCOVERY OF CHOLERA

Chicago Medical Society to Investigate Claim of Dr. Gotlieb.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Dr. Gotlieb, Dr. Samuel Gotlieb on the discovery of cholera germs, has been called by the Chicago Medical Society to a special conclusion has been appointed to delve into the results of the discovery.

The Gotlieb claim, if it can be made good, would have brought the discoverer to consult by the commissioners appointed by the Chicago Medical Society.

The commissioners are willing to accept the bacillus of cholera, if they say, but refuse to allow any inoculation of the bacillus, and the question of how this should be done to settle the question of the discovery.

ILLUSTRATION OF NEW YORK FINANCIAL WAYS

New York, Feb. 11.—After five years the sinking fund commission of New York will refund 20 million dollars of the Brooklyn Bridge bonds, the money originally which was loaned by the Government to Pennsylvania, and it was discovered after an examination has been made of the bridge that it was not necessary the initial approval month. Mr. Belin did not seek to recover the money but the commission office he stood that if an order had been made for the payment of the money, the bridge would of refuse to accept the money with a resolution for the return of the money. Mr. Belin proved to the commission that the president had failed to inform of the money will cost the city $2.

WIRELESS MESSAGE FROM ATLANTIC BATTLESHIP FLEET

New York, Feb. 12.—What is believed to be a direct message from the Atlantic battleship fleet now on its way to the Pacific was picked up in a crude wireless system and relayed up to wireless station in the vicinity of New York harbor at 1:30 this morning.

The message was presumably sent by the Kansas, the flagship, following the fleet and read as follows:

"At 8:30 p. m. 34N 40 north longitude: 70 latitude 7W. course north. 9 knots. Smooth sea. Stop to arrive Hampton Roads Wednesday."

According to calculations of the navy department and to the schedule as published the fleet is due at Hampton Roads due to arrive on Feb. 20 or 21, Monday and Tuesday respectively.

The message received from the Tuckton then would seem to indicate that the fleet is ahead of schedule and is moving to be a week ahead of time, which is apparently out of the question as the great Wednesday the calendar.

New York and vicinity seemed to be the center of wireless information last night and early today and if the message from the Kansas proves to be correct, it will mark the first instance of the remarkable record of receiving messages from both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets within a few hours of each other.

The message from the Kansas was from New Hampshire coast, in southern waters having been picked up by the Cooper Union station of the United Wireless company last night. The message was sent by the Kansas operator to another other communication between vessels in the Atlantic within fifteen miles of the Kansas. The message was through a wireless system set up the steamer Ft Norse of the Southern Pacific Steamship company, the wireless began beginning a watch last night and continued it until 1:30 this morning, when it picked up the message from the Kansas.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Two large affairs will be given tonight in honor of the Presidential inaugural day anniversary. The first the annual dinner of the Utah Society of New York where about 300 of Utah representative men will be present to pay tribute to the nation's universal president to the man and fear, the second the large special meeting of the daughters of the Revolution, the 1 hour of Mrs. and Mrs. George A. Smith where a program will be given, the dinner will be preceded by a dance, the dinner will begin with an elaborate supper at 7 o'clock.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Today is the centennial anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, who has been called the greatest American that ever lived since the foundation of this Republic. Americans are not given to hero worship. The tendency among popular forms of government generally is levelling, rather than elevating, so far as individuals are concerned. But old Abraham spirit under the influence of which a citizen could be vote for the nomination of Aristides for no other reason then that he was tired of hearing him referred to as "the just," is still found in republics. But Lincoln's fame has long ago risen above all petty considerations, and today his name is honored and revered by American citizens everywhere. And still more, his greatness grows, as years roll by and his work is seen by the light of history and its magnitude becomes apparent.

Abraham Lincoln is remembered as the great patriot and statesman of his age. He is remembered as the saviour of the Union, and the martyr of a holy cause. But he is held in still more loving remembrance because of his strong qualities as a man. He was honest, kind, tender, true, considerate. In fact, had he not been all this, he would never have been able to fill the mission of his life on earth, and for that reason he stands as an example in all generations. He speaks, though he is dead.

We had not repeat the incidents of his biography, with which all are familiar. His whole life was a struggle, which culminated in the war and the final tragedy. What a wonderful career from the log hut cabin, in 1809, till he met death, in 1865, as the president of the United States! This career began in the humble occupation of a farm laborer; studying at night, and during its extra day. Soon we hear of him as an athlete, a writer on temperance questions, and a champion of the integrity of the American Union. In 1830 he was a rail splitter, having contracted to split four hundred rails for every yard of brown jean that would be needed for a pair of trousers. Presently he became an orator, a boatman, a salesman, a doctor in frontier camp, a captain in the militia, and an unsuccessful candidate for the legislature. Having bought a store, he failed, ruined by a drunken partner. Then he was appointed postmaster at New Salem. Later he studied law and became a lawyer, and in 1834 he was a successful candidate for the legislature in Illinois. About this time he appears as the champion of a lady and is engaged to fight a duel. But reconciliation was effected, and he married the lady, Miss Mary Todd. In 1846 he was sent to Congress. In 1854 he sounds the espousement of personal land convenient, but failed. Subsequently he engaged in state politics and opposed Judge Douglas in a debate that has become famous, and that gave him the nomination for the presidency of the United States. What a wonderful career! If there was ever a man of destiny, Abraham Lincoln was that man.

Not that destiny alone lifted him up to the pinnacle of fame and responsibility. He climbed slowly upward. He labored hard for advancement. While others preferred to idle their time away, Lincoln toiled. He was always doing something useful. Many another boy and young man placed precisely as Lincoln was, preferred to go fishing or to go out and hunt wild turkeys, rather than spend his time in dubious or crab stamps. So by the impulse of industry within him that Lincoln chose to "work while opportunity and opportunity." He never would have been president of the American republic if he had just done so. Destiny may place a man in a position to do great things, but the man himself must work out the problems involved.

The best way, undoubtedly, to estimate the value of the services of Abraham Lincoln to this country, is to consider what the United States in all probability would have been today, but for the life, and, we may say, death of that man. If there is any truth in the motto: "United we stand; divided we fall," the Republic owes its very existence today to the policy of the man who was the most able advocate.

One of the great monuments to the memory of Lincoln is the Union Pacific railway. It was set afoot in its undertaking and his comprehension of what its construction meant to the country, that induced Congress to enact the laws that made it possible to raise the funds in a comparatively short time. This is the view taken by General Dodge in an article in Appleton's magazine. He says that Lincoln called him to Washington to consult with him on the proper place for the initial point of that railway. He continues:

"I found him well posted in all the controlling reasons covering such a selection and we went into the matter at length and discussed the arguments presented by the competing points. After going over all the facts that could be presented to him, President Lincoln directly fixed the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific railway where now stands the thriving city of Council Bluffs. After this decision of the location he took up with me the question of building the road. The law of 1862 had failed to bring any capitalist to undertake the work, and I said to him that in my opinion private enterprise could not build the road. My opinion was that the government, let its hands full and could not undertake the work, but was ready to support any company to the fullest legal extent and amend the law so as to enable such a company to issue securities that would furnish the necessary funds. I went to New York and informed the leading men of the country of the purpose of my visit with the president and what he had said. They were greatly concerned and intensely desired to work on the inauguration of the measure, which was afterwards guaranteed to Congress and passed as the Union Pacific bill of 1864. Under this bill the road was built in four years, although Congress had allowed ten years for its construction."

As President of the United States Lincoln had occasion to state his attitude on the so-called "Mormon" question, which was before the country since the exodus from Illinois. Lincoln, when asked what policy he proposed to pursue on that question, replied: "I propose to let them alone." In order to illustrate his position, he compared the problem to a bunch of bees on a tree. The big being too knotty to split, too heavy to remove, and too green to burn, there was nothing else to do but to "blow around it." Thus, however, did not prevent him from aiming the anti polygamy law of 1862.

That same year President Lincoln called upon President Brigham Young to raise, arm, and equip a company of cavalry for the purpose of protecting the property of the telegraph and overland mail companies against the hostile Indians. Needless to say the call was responded to with alacrity. Lot Smith was placed in command, and he and his men rendered valuable services which were duly acknowledged by the army officers who later joined them and detested their efforts. The expedition is characterized as one of the most heroic deeds in annals of Indian warfare.

President Lincoln was always regarded as a friend of the people in Utah, and when the tidings came of his assassination, the mourning was universal and sincere. The tragedy occurred on the 14th of April, 1865, and as soon as it became known here, places of business were closed, flags were half masted on all public buildings and many private residences, including that of Brigham Young, and his carriage was driven through town covered with crape. The theater was closed and the pulpit in the Tabernacle was draped in mourning the following Sunday. As soon on Wednesday notices public services were held in that building. The speakers were Elder Amasa M. Lyman, of the Quorum of Twelve, and Rev. Norman McLeod, chaplain of Camp Douglas.

The following estimate of Abraham Lincoln by Mr. Bryan, we find in the Northwestern Christian Advocate:

"Abraham Lincoln was a unique figure fitting so perfectly into the conditions which he had to meet that his life is used as an illustration by those who attempt to trace the hand of Providence in the development of history. He was one of the greatest seers, more than the president of the United States—especially excelling in courtesy and diplomacy, and yet he was a Christian gentleman who could be combined with his statesmanship politics to an extraordinary degree. It was a fortunate for the South as for the North that he was at the head of the nation during the crucial period covered by the Civil War. He was a man who knew to love the slave owner while he hated slavery. He will immortalize his name and no will be more and more remembered as one of the most typical of Americans."

Let us cherish the memory of Abraham Lincoln by renewing the resolve that the dead who fell in defense of liberty shall not have died in vain, by resolving that "this nation, under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

ONE GREAT VICTORY.

The House, in passing the Prohibition bill by an overwhelming majority, proves that it is in harmony with the popular sentiment of this State. Not quite ten percent of the vote cast against the measure while a division over 19 per cent was registered in favor of it. Not much is about the true proportion of the respective positions of the voters. The House has done well in recognizing the right of the constituents to say what they want in a matter of such importance. They have done well in giving a decided shaft, regardless of the tremendous influence brought to bear upon them by interests hostile to those of the majority of the people. We hope the Senate will take a similar stand and act on the side of the people to whom the Senators are responsible. Men like Representative Baker of Tooele are to be recommended for their frank yielding of their own opinions when asked to do so by those who have a right to ask. That reminds us of the stand taken many years ago by J. Murdock, of Beaver, who, when the question of woman suffrage came up in a Territorial legislature voted for it because he knew his constituents wanted him to vote that way, although he himself was of a different mind. Men who let people who carries out the expressed will of the people. That is the road to usefulness and popularity.

CHARLES DARWIN.

Another great man born on the same day as Abraham Lincoln, is Charles Robert Darwin, the great naturalist of the age, whose birthplace was Shrewsbury, England, and who died at Down in Kent, April 19, 1882. To those who know Darwin only as the author of his "Origin of Species," which has been supposed to set forth a view of nature incompatible with the teachings of the Scriptures, it may be a surprise to learn from a fragmentary autobiography written for the benefit of his children, that one of the subjects of study to which he took delight in his early years, was the evidence for the truth of Christianity. In order to pass the B. A. examination he had to study Paley's "Evidences" and "Horse Paley's Ecology," and he says he did this in conflict with good morals and the rights of others. What does he mean by that? Perhaps he means suffering and shame to others? The father of a boy may surprise the family circle, what right has he to spend even a part of it for liquor, when all is not too much for his family and for his old age and possible sickness?

No one will any longer cling to the idea that strong drink is good for human consumption.

Let the citizens requiring the retailing of building enterprises re-consider the question of the enforcement of prohibition. I believe they will believe that outlaws built and owned by the saloon, commute behavior not better for any community than the kind of tenement which has been the occasion so an city. Outlaw the liquor traffic, if it be found to exist, it is not the dark dives where it belongs, but the names away from the feet of our youth. Yours for sobriety and temperance.

EMANUEL RYDBERG.

LINCOLN ON THE SALOON.

Whether or not the world would be vastly benefitted by a total and final banishment from it of all intoxicating drinks, seems to be not an open question. Three-fourths of mankind answer this affirmative with their tongues; and, I believe, all the rest acknowledge it in their hearts. Could it be so, to refuse to do it? Could any what the good of the whole demands?—Abraham Lincoln, at Springfield, Ill. Feb. 22, 1842.

OUTLAW THE SALOON.

By Rev. Emanuel Rydberg, Pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church.

To Editor Deseret News.

I feel under deep obligation to your paper for the stand it takes on the liquor question. If prohibition "does not prohibit;" if "more liquor is sold where prohibition have are found," why, then, do the brewers and distillers oppose prohibition? If I am not mistaken they are striving in the liquor business to sell as much liquor as they can. Do the liquor interests dislike it? I believe that "prohibition does not prohibit" by all means let us have prohibition and set against it. If prohibition does not prohibit, the liquor traffic ought to would be cheaper to us than without having to pay the big license fees which now are required.

As far as the "well ordered" saloon is concerned, that solves it the one that gives the traffic responsibility and therefore takes away from the only to young men, but to men in general.

"Personal liberty" must not come in such a thorough manner that he could have written out the whole of the "Bhagavat" in his own language, with perfect correctness. He says that the logic of this book and of the "Vedanta Theology" gave him a great deal of delight, though he did not believe that the study was of any use to him in the education of his mind. He took pleasure in the music, the dancing, the plays, and was charmed and convinced by the long line of argumentation.

A great deal more of the Hindu literature are following the same course with respect to the logic of their great scriptures. They accept its premises without too close inquiry into their foundation, and are charmed with the conclusions. Others who are not fully satisfied that the foundation cannot be such rude facts, are less enthusiastic about the superstructure itself. If, for instance, they are told that man is but an improved monkey, and that all mankind sprung from one single pair, it seems to be proved beyond possibility of successful contradiction, that probably ask, Why did only one pair of monkeys develop into human beings, and all the others remained monkeys? Why, if evolution worked with equal force, did not all the monkeys become the ancestors of humans? Why did the monkey race evolve into a human race?

There is no discrepancy between the truths revealed in the Scriptures and the truths discovered by Darwin, and Darwin's theory is accepted by those sciences fully understand each other, they are in perfect accord.

If prohibition would not prohibit and if prohibition law would not be enforced, why are the anti-prohibitionists so wrought up over the question?

It would scarcely occasion any surprise if some day Mr. Rockefeller in picking up railroads should announce that he had discovered the "missing link."

All attempts to pass the census bill over the President's veto have been abandoned. Vile shows that the House and Senate leaders are coming to their census.

As part of his punishment U. S. Judge Hunt compelled a Mormon wife to marry an Indian squaw. The sentence would seem to be unconstitutional as it certainly imposes a cruel and unusual punishment.

A gentleman who is very much opposed to prohibition says that if the Chinaman bill becomes law it will be impossible to buy a pint of vinegar in the State. This sounds very much as though he had eaten sour grapes.

The anti-prohibitionists who say that Utah people are not sufficiently of a much the same state of mind as the man who was assured by the Judge that he should have justice, and who replied that it was the very thing he feared.

Advocating the bill providing for taking a census of the Japanese in California, Assemblyman Grove L. Johnson philosophically remarked that "Half a loaf is better than no bread." And it also reduces the chances of getting off more than he can chew.

The liquor traffic is a cancer in society, eating out the vitals and threatening destruction, and all attempts to palliate it or to put on a plaster are futile, but will aggravate the evil. There must be no more attempts to regulate the cancer, it must be eradicated, not a root want to left behind, for nihil fit is done, all classes must continue in danger of becoming victims of strong drink."

LINCOLN TABLET GIVEN TO SCHOOL

Patriotic Services Held in All Buildings Throughout The City.

THE LIFE OF THE MARTYR.

Judge C. S. Zane, Who Knew Lincoln In His Youth, Tells of the Sterling Worth of the Man.

Exercises commemorative of the life of Abraham Lincoln were held in every school in the city yesterday. Many prominent men and women addressed the students and the life of the great emancipator was portrayed in a manner calculated to inspire lofty motives and patriotic devotion to the cause of righteousness in the hearts of all.

The main feature of the day was the presentation of a bronze memorial tablet to the Lincoln school by the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Gov. William Spry, Judge H. P. Henderson and Col. E. W. Tullock being among the speakers. Several of the students also took part in the exercises. They were held in the upper hall of the school. The entire room was draped in flags and bunting and the memorial tablet occupied a prominent place on the north wall of the room. The cerecmonies were opened by the singing of "America" by the audience, the following program was then rendered:

Address—"Lincoln as I Knew Him" .....Judge Charles S. Zane
Song—"The Flag Without a Stain" .....Lincoln Glee and Roberts Crescendo
Address—"Why I Made Lincoln Great" .....Mrs. Gov. Spry
Song—"Tenting Tonight" .....Pupils of room 9
Lincoln's Gettysburg address .....Russell Owens
Song—"Star Spangled Banner" .....Mrs. Emma Ramsey Morris
Presentation of tablet to Lincoln school .....Col. E. W. Tullock
Address of acceptance on behalf of board of education .....Judge H. P. Henderson
Acceptance of tablet by Lincoln school .....Chas. Newbold
Song—"Tribute to the Soldier" .....Pupils of room 15

NOTIFIED LINCOLN.

Judge Charles S. Zane, who was one of the three men appointed to notify Lincoln of his nomination for president of the United States, spoke of the lovely life of Lincoln and his subsequent struggle to get an education. He told of the throughgoers which characterized all his acts and referred to him as a "great man and great determined to get at the bottom of everything he undertook."

Gov. Spry spoke briefly of the greatness of Lincoln. Lincoln was great in so many ways that it was difficult to say just what made him great. He was great in body, great in intellect, great in spirit. His remarkable foresight was emphasized by the speaker. He was great in his ability to see into the eventual outcome of a policy and it was this peculiar ability which enabled him to prove—the nation intact. The governor described Lincoln as "the greatest American."

Col. Tullock made the presentation speech. He said in part: "The incidents of the war: the call for additional troops and the subsequent response "We are coming, Father Abraham, 300,000 strong." The life of the soldiers on the battlefield was pictured by the speaker. The speaker commended the pupils of the lower grades and said the intention announced of having the children of the city form a living American flag upon that occasion. Col. Tullock closed his address with a tribute to the life of handsome heritage cuts of the tablet to be placed in the various rooms of the school.

TABLET ACCEPTED.

Judge H. P. Henderson, president of the school board, made the speech of acceptance. He said no acceptance was necessary, as he felt that all the veterans desired was that the gift should be approved by the board of education. This he assured them was the case. He then commented briefly on the life of Lincoln and the sterling qualities of the man, his friends and enemies.

A very pretty incident of the proceedings was the presentation of a half tone reproduction of the memorial tablet to Mrs. Emma Ramsey Morris, as a compliment to her services in behalf of the soldiers.

Col. Frank M. Sterrett, executive director of the forty-third national encampment, was the principal speaker at the exercises held in the Bonneer school. Dr. E. W. Wallace also spoke on the significance of Lincoln's life and Mrs. Wallace gave delightful students with a piano selection of Blind Tom's, "The Battle of Manassas." The High school and All Hallows colleges also devoted part of the day to exercises appropriate to the occasion, as did every other school in the city.

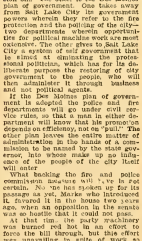
Two Important Measures Before Senate Committee.

Members of County and Municipal Corporations Committee Who Are Considering the Des Moines Plan Measure for Salt Lake City and the Police and Fire Commission Bill.

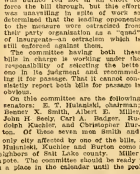
HULANISKI, CHAIRMAN.



BENNER X. SMITH.

MILLER OF ST. GEORGE.

SEELY OF SANPETE.



KUCHLER OF WEBER.

BURTON OF DAVIS.

BADGER OF SALT LAKE.

UNLESS the prohibition measure consumes the time of the state senate for the entire remaining period of the session, two other measures of the first importance will demand the attention of that body. Both cannot become laws, so one of them does away with the need for the other.

One is the fire and police commission bill. The other is the Des Moines plan of government. One takes away from Salt Lake City its government by commission which they refer to the fire protection and the policing of the city—two departments wherein opportunities for political machine work are most extensive. The other gives to Salt Lake City a system of self government that is aimed at eliminating the professional politician, which has for its development the necessity of the city government to the people, who will then administer it through business and not political agents.

If the Des Moines plan of government is adopted the police and fire departments will go under civil service rules, so that a man in either department will know that his promotion depends on efficiency, not on "pull." The other plan leaves the entire matter of administration in the hands of a commission to be named by the state governor, the whole make up no indication of the people of the city itself have anything.

What backing the fire and police commission measure will have is not certain. No one has spoken up for its passage as yet. Marks who introduced it, favored it in the house two years ago, when an opposition in the senate was so hostile that it could not pass.

At that time the party machinery was turned full hot in an effort to force the bill through, but this effort was unavailing in spite of wars so determined that the leading opponents to the measure were contracted from their party organization. The measure was passed by a majority of one, which is still unbroken against it.

The committee having both these bills in charge is working under the responsibility of selecting the between in its judgment and recommending it for passage. That it cannot completely report both bills for passage is obvious.

On this committee are the following senators: E. T. Hulaniski, chairman; Benner X. Smith, Albert E. Miller, John H. Seely, Carl A. Badger, Rudolph Kuchler, and Christopher Burton. Of these seven men Smith and Seely are the only city officials by one of the bills, and the principal city affected by the other. Of the five outside senators Hulaniski, Kuchler and Burton come from Weber and Davis counties respectively, both of which are more populous than the entire southern counties and of the state, while Seely is from Sanpete. The committee should be ready to report early next week, but it is doubtful if the bill in favors will reach a place in the calendar until the prohibition question is finally disposed of.

QUARTERLY REPORT ON UTAH COPPER

Statement Shows Output of the Plant is Less Than Third Quarter.

PROFITS OVER HALF MILLION.

Demonstrates Guggenheim Plan Has Economical Operating Capacity Of 6,000 Tons a Day.

In the quarterly statement issued by the Utah Copper company this morning it is shown that the total output from the smelter was 224,281 pounds less than for the third quarter; that this both plans in operation approximately 25 per cent more could have been handling with practicable or rational cost; that the net profits for the quarter were $490,916, and that the dividend payment has demonstrated that it has an economical operating capacity in excess of 6,000 tons a day. The report is as follows:

To the stockholders of the Utah Copper Company: The operations of your company for the quarter ending 12th months of October, November and December, 1908, have resulted in the loss of the year 1908 as follows:

Eleven months plus of the Guggenheim plant were in partial operation until November, when the treatment of the last section of the plant was placed in commission, enabling to delivery of its tonnage, largely due to the Guggenheim process, and the ability to utilize tailings, either weathered, or from the plant, has not yet been operated at its full capacity, excepting for periods of a few days at a time, abnormally severe weather conditions prevailed throughout portions of the months of October and November, resulting in a deficiency of tonnage for the mill, which was to have been made up in the remaining months of the year, for the previous quarter, "the month of November also showed a deficiency as compared to the previous quarter's average, but we were able to make some of the lost tonnage in December, having which tonnage to delivery, primarily large tonnage due to the Guggenheim process, and the ability to utilize tailings either weathered, or from the plant has not yet been operated at its full capacity, excepting for periods of a few days at a time, abnormally severe weather conditions prevailed throughout portions of the months of October and November, resulting in a deficiency of tonnage for the mill, which was to have been made up in the remaining months of the year, for the previous quarter, "the month of November also showed a deficiency as compared to the previous quarter's average, but we were able to make some of the lost tonnage in December, having which tonnage to delivery

LABOR LEADERS AND IMMIGRATION

In Conference With Secy. Straus They Freely Criticized President Laws Governing It.

RESTRICTIONS WERE URGED.

Valuation of Makers' Union Said Conditions Affecting Unemployed Were Worse in 1873 and 1893.

Washington, Feb. 11.—At the conference of leaders of organized labor with Secy. Straus of the department of commerce and labor, which was continued today, criticism of present immigration laws was made by nearly every speaker, including President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, Warren S. Stone of the Locomotive Engineers, and President Valentine of the Molders' union.

Mr. Valentine declared that conditions affecting unemployed workmen were worse than in the panic years of 1873 and 1893. He urged restrictive immigration laws.

Secretary Straus pointed out that the United States has international obligations to aid to the country from which could not be abrogated, even when it might seem temporarily disadvantageous to do so.

"If we were to undertake that," said the secretary, "from the standpoint of unity and international relations our action might be tantamount to a declaration of war with a foreign power."

Commissioner of Labor Neill, who had been called to the conference by Secretary Straus, corroborated Mr. Valentine's statements.

He criticized, by intimation, the direction of the work of the division of information. Mr. Neill said that he was not in the conference "the slide downhill's already." He was there, he said, to tell what he knew and without reference to anybody.

While Secretary Straus had little to say regarding this development he was evidently not pleased with the attitude of the commissioner.

CROOKED WORK OF A BOOTH & COMPANY

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Frederick P. Robins, formerly assistant treasurer of A. Booth & Co., testifying under oath at the hearing being held by the master in chancery, said that the books of the company were properly kept, but that in a statement presented in 1907 to the Commercial National bank, the Continental National bank, the Union stock yards National bank and the First National bank, the assets of the Booth firm were scaled down $1,000,000 and the bills receivable increased by about the same amount, a difference of nearly $2,000,000 in all. Previous erroneous statements, he said, had been made. The following year, witness said, he had covered overvaluations with the Vernon Booth, head of the firm, relative to the statements and Mr. Booth expressed surprise at the state of affairs. Finally it was agreed to make a statement of the true condition of affairs to the bank concerned.

KILLED HER HUSBAND AS HE LAY ASLEEP IN BED

Cripple Creek, Colo., Feb 11.—With her two children by her side, Mrs. Ida Mae Medella Durham this morning took a revolver from her husband's pillow and shot and instantly killed her husband, who was lying asleep in the single bed at Fairbury, Neb., where she was visiting her and had threatened to kill him. The woman then fired the chief over his head, it is said that she and Mrs. Durham had quarreled at one time, owing to Durham's ill treatment of his wife, but later they became reconciled.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Women With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Give Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I had tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but found them entirely foiled; many of them made my hair greasy as it was naturally so much it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were injurious instead of being of any benefit. I noticed a lady friend who had a beautiful head of hair. After my trouble had lasted for two years I asked her what she used. She gave me the prescription which I used with very gratifying results. I can truthfully state that it is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for a lady I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it and all attested wonderful effects therefrom. It is not a patent medicine, but a simple growth of fine hair, and the hair growing over hair to its natural color. It is equally good for preventing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair much easier to comb and arrange in the morning. I have a friend who used it two months, and during that time it not only stopped the falling of her hair, but it wonderfully increased its growth, and left her scalp healthy and free from any hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making the preparation at any druggists, at most any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay rum, 6 oz., Menthol crystal, 5-half drachm, Lanolin, 2 drachms, 2 oz.; 7½-Kalon perfume, 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls.

Apply night and morning, rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Get to your druggist and ask for the ingredients, and in mixing, give them to the pharmacist, Menthol crystal, and for a 2-ounce bottle of Kalon perfume, use. Mix the ingredients yourself at your own leisure. Add the Menthol last. If in the Bay Rum, and then pour in 7 Lanolin 2 drachms, and add the Kalon perfume. Let it stand for half hour and it is ready to use.

LINCOLN HOLIDAY PROCLAMATION

Perst. Roosevelt Issues one for Observance of Centennial Anniversary of Emancipator.

APPLICATION IS RESTRICTED.

Effective Only Where General Government Has Exclusive Jurisdiction —Authorized by Congress.

Washington, Feb. 11.—By joint resolution late today Congress made provision for so far as possible for the observance of Feb. 12, 1909, the centennial anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln as a special holiday and authorized the president to issue a proclamation making it effective in the District of Columbia and the territories of Alaska, Arizona, New Mexico and Hawaii.

In anticipation of the passage of such a resolution after he had departed for Lincoln's birthplace in Kentucky, the president had prepared and signed a proclamation which was made as soon as the joint resolution had been signed by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house.

While that proclamation applies only to the District of Columbia and the territories, including Alaska, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Massachusetts, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Washington and Wyoming have by legislation made Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday.

TEXT OF PROCLAMATION.

Following is the president's Lincoln day proclamation:

A proclamation:

Whereas, By joint resolution of Congress it is provided that the twelfth day of February, 1909, the same being the centennial anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, and the same to hereby made a special holiday for the District of Columbia and the territories of Alaska, Arizona and Hawaii;

Whereas, It is the sole province of the president to authorize or issue a proclamation in accordance with the foregoing, setting apart the twelfth day of February, 1909, as a special legal holiday;

Now, Therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, in virtue of the authority conferred upon me by the said joint resolution, do hereby set apart the twelfth day of February, 1909, as a special legal holiday.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this eleventh day of February, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and nine, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-fourth.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

By Robert C. Bacon, Secretary of State.

TIM SULLIVAN.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—During the negotiations for the purchase of a site for the new $20,000,000 passenger station for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, it was discovered that part of the land desired was owned apparently by one Tim Sullivan, who could not be found. Tim is a character in the neighborhood, which was made so by the construction of the new building, search was made for Sullivan all over the country.

Recently it was learned that Sullivan had died at Lyons, Mass., and efforts were made to locate his heirs.

Now, a woman stays she is Sullivan's widow, appeared at Lyons that she will claim the property, which is valued at $50,000.

Prohibition Arguments Pro and Con.

FOR.

Some reasons why the sale and manufacture of liquor should be suppressed by law.

LETTER TO MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE

To the Honorable Members of the Utah Legislature:

Gentlemen—Never before in the history of Utah has a legislative body been called upon to face with a problem of so grave a nature, and one that is so universally characterized by the people of Utah as the prohibition question, which is now before you. It is a case where the best telling citizen, the devoted wife and mother, and in fact each and every home throughout this state looks to you for the redress of the wrongs now upon us. Your constituents, sans-wife, are pleading for you to enact such legislation that you will legislate such laws that will place the whiter traffic under the ban of the law, and it is within your power to do so, and we believe that the overwhelming majority of our many unhappy homes in Utah, as well as that of the idle and corruption that surround each and every village throughout the state.

You are face to face with the wishes of the people of Utah on the one hand and the power and influence of the political boss on the other who, as it is claimed, to win Salt Lake county at the last election, promised to do all in his power to carry out the wishes of the people of Utah.

When you gentlemen were elected to your present legislative seats you knew without an exception on a platform of prohibition. You were made sworn with this the people's request and you understood it as you do now. You have received numerous requests from your constituents to stand true to them and their wishes, in using every honorable means at your command, in some instances you have gone to order to impress you more forcibly with their desire, have sent special delegations to carry to you their wishes. One case of this kind came to your notice a few days ago, and with what result? Was that body of men returned to their people with no encouragement at their representatives, who the day before that, hit the hand that fed it, and the people's servants.

The public voting privilege of the ballot is a boon to its citizens; but on the other hand it is a sin to the body politic to have the wishes of the master totally ignored and the trust imposed in their elected representatives undermined and betrayed, as has been done by some members of the present legislature.

The desire for state-wide prohibition is not a fad, it is a necessity, it is a necessity that has been felt for years, but that a few men at the head of the Republican party of the state, stand defiant against the wishes of the masses, which, of course, they have sought to do, or break their pledges with the members of home, and the political power here fast themselves tied up in the shackles of the liquor and gambling and that to the disgust of the people, who are demanding that the law be enforced without prejudice, as well as without favor, owning no condition to any one.

It is within your power to give us state-wide prohibition, and your constituents are asking what they can do to help you, and what they can do to keep their pledges with the members of home, and political power here fast themselves tied up in the shackles of the liquor and gambling and that to the disgust of the people, who are demanding that the law be enforced without prejudice, as well as without favor, owning no condition to any one.

It is within your power to give us state-wide prohibition, and your constituents are asking what they can do to help you, and what they can do to keep their pledges with the members of home, and political power here fast themselves tied up in the shackles of the liquor and gambling and that to the disgust of the people, who are demanding that the law be enforced without prejudice, as well as without favor, owning no condition to any one.

Shall we have less than this? Shall we have less than this? Shall we do not restrict and hold it in check? If the argument will work in one city and county, it will work in other. Your state demands prohibition and it is your duty to give it and your constituents are willing to abide the result of it.

You gentlemen are sent to the present legislature to represent your constituents and they whom are not to be trifled with, and to work with a problem who combine together in order to do the work of the devil, and there Wise your people will, your respective cells, and when that delegation from the south, representing 30,000 people and their representatives refuse to comply with the request it is little less than treason to them.

A case where the honest vote of the people, and sent to a legislature to represent the wishes of the respective cities, and then turns traitor, should be treated as such, and the people should be given a chance to do so.

Gentlemen, stand by those whom you represent and do your duty as God gives you strength and let the bunch of corporation lobbyists and let their dilemma as best they can.

C. F. TERRACHER.

ANCIENT POLITICS BLUNDER IN ISRAEL

Editor Deseret News—Ancient Israel first created a king, and the people demanded a king. Saul, their first king, fell into the snare Satan laid and lost his kingdom thereby.

In those days the Son of Heaven took a part. He told Saul through his prophet Samuel that because of his wicked king of a people ripened in sin. Saul was to be destroyed and another put in his place. Saul was troubled by the thought of being dethroned and he sought out the prophet Samuel and said to him, "Wherefore hast thou served him? Or did he listen to a political fire coming the young dwelling of Albert Hamilton year the village of Sevville Indy. Mrs. Hamilton leaped from a second-story window and was killed, and her two children, Alice, 10, were burned to death in their beds.

PLEASING LECTURE LYCEUM.

George Gilbert Bancroft Tells of His Experiences With Psychic Phenomena.

At Barratt hall last night George Gilbert Bancroft was listened to attentively by a large audience. His lecture was upon various psychological phenomena and was largely a narrative of his personal experiences while investigating spirit medium, mind readers and the fakirs. Keen humor punctuated his lecture and many incidents were related by him by the unexplained and both deceived. Thousands out his income in certain directions by many controlling influences the mind. A people generally believed in good evidence, may overcome the mind of the body. Sol. Sol. 7 of the city.

Tonight Dr. Bancroft lectures again in Barratt hall and the announcement of his lecture promises to attract much of interest. Being a holiday, a large audience is anticipated, and arrangements have been made to accommodate it.

Today there is a king who has caused the whole world to sin. He has a large and strong following—among whom are giants without souls, transgressors without conscience. A war is being waged against this king whose name is Alcohol. The Lord of Hosts and Heaven speaks through the voice of a people saying he has gone enough of Lord, Sodom and Gomorrah. Shall we let this king of Alcohol, who has made drunkard, gambler, and adulterer of us, and who has made us a people. Let him make upon the foe and shall we look like the Israelites to right nor left neither look back. To fail is to be coward. We must not be beaten back and lose the battle in advance. We must continue to press on, be strong and of a good courage be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed.

Be courageous and seeks. The battle is not yet, we are putting into the thick of the fight. Lower and lower the banner of Alcohol, Utah is the banner unanimous, cold voice is urging you to do it. It is coming! What people will do his duty." They want to king after and they want to make him a ruler.

TAFT IS GUEST OF NEW ORLEANS

Made a Brief Speech Heartily Approving Lock Canal Across Isthmus of Panama.

IGNORES OLD TRADITIONS.

At Carnival Ball Shared the Throne With Their Majesties and Danced With Queen.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 11.—President William H. Taft landed here shortly before 8 o'clock this afternoon from Panama, and was enthusiastically received. He will be the city's guest until Saturday morning. Mr. Taft made a brief speech this afternoon, heartily approving the lock type of canal across the isthmus. Tomorrow he will address the negro Y. M. C. A., and at night he will be guest of honor at an elaborate banquet. Saturday he will go to Cincinnati, on Monday he will go to Washington, returning again to Cincinnati Wednesday.

On the trip from Panama Mr. Taft made the first draft of his inaugural address. This he intends to submit to certain friends in Washington next week.

The inability of the consulting civil engineers to complete the Welitoun-Panama canal shows the Washington people that the Taft necessity for an engineer will go with him to Washington to complete their work. It may be decided that there might be a complete approval of present plans and methods on the isthmus.

In his address here today, Mr. Taft made what Mr. Roosevelt intended to do at his trip.

"I am free on my way from a great constructive work," he said. "The great work entered into by me and my friends the present two centuries, and I am glad to say that the end of the work is in sight, so you could have it for a present on the first of January. This, at latest, if one looks ahead, I am much interested in having it within the next four years—that canal will be completed. And when that time comes you will see Panama from the river your great commerce bound through those straits to the vast coast of America, to the west coast of South America, to the orient and to Europe."

"The board of engineers has recommended a lock canal and they say it is much, that the organization of the canal on the American peach and the good feeling that exists, will be mutually useful to them as men who undertook great works of that class and convinces them that the canal is now an immediate prospect."

Mr. Taft's entry into New Orleans was of great interest. He came up the hundred miles of Mississippi river from the mouth of the river on the tug Washington, at the head of a flotilla of tugs, arriving here about 11 months. At Algiers, opposite the river had on gala dress and as far as a dozen miles below the city, the large steamer grease was alive with lung and steam-whistles, lung-shaped crowds of cheering citizens. The concert of steam whistles, horse boats and hooks lined with enthusiastic enthusiasts, added to the scene. A little afterwards received the local reception committee eight miles below the city, accompanied by the governor and other prominent people.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Mr. Taft was hoist through many old traditions associated with the masked ball of the carnival season tonight when they were the guests of the Queen of Momus and the Elves of Oberon at the old French opera house. Hundreds of the leaders of these bands have brought about the commencement of their identity ever since the days of crude pecan and lemon and an entirely new and very much unlooked for scoundrel was established by the honor paid the president-elect and Mrs. Taft.

No sooner had the rule of the blue and green been established than they made their way, surrounded by courtesy, to the box of honor and received the distinguished visitors to the stage where they were asked to share the

FIRST TO WEAR OUT WITH AGE

Prescription Which is Valued by Elderly People Who Suffer.

RELIEVES CHRONIC CASES.

Anyone Can Fix It at Home—Hamlin Pains and Insoapenine—Relieves Kidney and Bladder Troubles and Rheumatism.

The great majority of men and women at the age of 50 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in the form of a lame back, weak bladder, weak kidneys, and a general feeling of nervousness, disturbed sleep, which is not a disease itself, but a symptom of decaying tissue of the kidneys, which soon become clogged and sluggish, falling in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to accumulate and decompose, setting up the delicate and sensitive lining membranes, and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folks the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

Hundreds of readers who suffer will find the following, which is known as Hamlin's Wonderful Kidney Pills, a boon to them. Take a dose of these pills and the pain in the back, weakness and effective treatment to clean the system of clogged kidneys and remove irritation of the bladder and restore healthy action of the old people.

It is a most valuable boon to the entire kidney and urinary structure, and relieves the old people.

The Dandelion mixture consists of the following simple vegetable ingredients of which can be obtained from any good pharmacy: Fluid Extract Compound Kaloga, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, half ounce. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water.

This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and afflictions of the kidneys and bladder and rheumatism.

Hamlin's Wonderful Kidney Pills are sold by druggists everywhere, and Mrs. Taft was the purchaser of a dozen boxes of the remedy. Mr. Taft recognized many old friends among those present when he made his arrival in New Orleans.

Why, there is my old Yale friend, Louis Le Bureque," exclaimed the president-elect grasping the hand of a man who appeared almost a counterpart of himself.

"Say, Bill, how much do you weigh?" asked Mr. Le Bureque.

"Louie, I've got you beat all right," said Mr. Taft, "I weighed 350 when I was at Yale, but I'm down to 300 now, but I'm still growing."

"Well, I have still something to look forward to," rejoined Mr. Taft, who, calling Mrs. Taft said, "I want you to meet my old friend Louie Le Bureque, Le Bureque. You can look at him and see what he was in my day and right."

WASHINGTON LETTERS OFFERED FOR SALE

London, Tuesday, Feb. 2.—A score of prominent citizens of London conferred relating to the American way of holding an inquest. Dr. Dr. Dr. Dr. Dr. Washington, are to be offered for sale at the Sotheby rooms.

The letters are chiefly addressed to Col. Israel Shreve, commandant of the New Jersey and are dated from headquarters at Valley Forge, New Windsor, and other places between Sept. 1777, and Dec. 1778. One letter is signed by Gen. Washington on account of the court-martial case.

The letters contain the sentence against Cutter until I have constituted a Lieutenant upon the matter, introducing court-martial into this state was intended to remedy the weak of the civil power, but in the state of the army, the civil power is a law framed for the purpose of trying individuals taking arms on the side of the enemy. I think such power should be delivered to the civil power.

In a signed address the commander of New Windsor, dated in the same letter, Dec. 1778, he says:

"Tell all of the continental troops the million will oblige the enemy to retire to the city of Philadelphia."

AMBASSADOR BRYCE'S TRIBUTE TO PREST. ELIOT

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Charles W. Eliot, retiring president of Harvard, tonight at the annual dinner of the Harvard club of Chicago listened to a remarkable tribute to his personal worth. It was uttered by Ambassador James Bryce.

"I have heard of a controversy in this country as to who was the most prominent man in Harvard, and concerning this there has been a difference of opinion. I have never heard any controversy relating to the greatest citizen of the United States, and he is Charles Eliot, president of Harvard University. He has been great because of his devotion to the cause of truth and of justice and because of his long life of 40 years and he is the best friend I ever knew.

Profoundly moved, President Eliot said in reply:

"If I never do anything more in the world I feel you do enough. I feel I am supremely content with what I have done and what I am. The office of Harvard and elsewhere have been my opportunities. I have no one to contest.

WOMAN WILL ACT AS GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Salem, Ore., Feb. 12.—When Gov. Chamberlain leaves the state on a trip to Washington to be sworn in as United States senator, the acting governor of Oregon will be a woman. It is now known that Gov. Chamberlain does not intend to relinquish the office of governor until he takes the oath as senator. The acting governor will be a period during which he will will be governor after he is sworn in. In the governor's absence it is the practice for the secretary of state to attend to the field business such as leading effield designations and signing the warrants of banns.

The legislature has just passed an act increasing the number of grand jurors in Multnomah county, in Salem, the present section, which provides for a grand jury of 18 instead of 15 as at present, and it is expected it will be signed within a few days.

Distinct precedence as secretary will be Mrs. C. E. Hinshaw, who for several years has been the state stenographer and as the precedent will be followed, Mrs. Hinshaw will be the acting governor though she be a woman.

GILSEY HOUSE RAIDED FOR ALLEGED POOL ROOM

New York, Feb. 12.—Thirty-two men were arrested under a raid on the pool floor apartment in the Gilsey house at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-second night as the result of complaints from the Gilsey house management. The Gilsey house was once famous as one of the great hostelries on Broadway. The management of the Gilsey house has been troubled by the rule that detectives were in the room and found a number of racing pools and betting slips. The owners, who were a particularly well dressed lot, were all kept in the room and one man, who gave the name of Hampton, was found to be the owner of the proprietor.

Years ago the Gilsey house was the headquarters for a number of prominent men who called themselves the "Old Guard." The hotel was opened in 1870 and Roscoe Conkling, who was elected in the place of President Arthur made his headquarters there when in the city and Conkling was one of the older Jay Gould and other Wall street men of a generation ago used to hold confidential talks. The Independence Republican was headquarters for the Gilsey.

NEW YORK CHINESE

Feel They Should be as Well Treated as the Japanese.

New York, Feb. 12.—Inspired by the action of their Pacific Coast brothers, the Chinese in New York's Chinatown are considering a protest against the treatment of their countrymen in this country. The first will be held tomorrow night.

Yesterday the Chinese Consulate, "that we are entitled to as much consideration as are the Japanese and we equal in civilization at least. Japan owes a debt to China for her civilization and its language and we do not think it fair that our race should be discriminated in this country while more favorable treatment is accorded the Japanese. The immigration curtailed is a complaint one, but we have always limited number should be permitted to land. We think it unfair that the Japanese should be allowed to land in greater relations than are other nations.

TWO MURDERERS CAPTURED

Manila, Feb. 12.—After months of tracking through the mountains of Negros, two members of a band of murderers were captured by the constabulary today. The two captured Wakely and Everett were brought in with the pursuit of their companions continues.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF WOULD-BE MURDERERS

Chicago, Feb. 12.—The police of Gary, Ind., are engaged in a mysterious case as a result of two cases of murderous assault in which three men were shot last night, two of them fatally.

Michael Cigarlo, a Gary saloon-keeper, attempted to collect money he had loaned to a man named Tom Tomkovitch and Joseph Cigarlo, his brother, was called upon to settle over the transact to be paid and Michael Cigarlo drew a revolver and shot Tomkovitch in the abdomen.

Going back to his shop Cigarlo assaulted a clerk and shot him in the neck. Both are in the hospital and the police are hunting for the assailant.

Tomkovitch will die. It is thought Joseph Cigarlo will recover.

Shortly before midnight while Peterman William Sternquest was walking with his sweetheart, Mrs. Sternquist, two strangers approached and opened fire. Sternquest was shot in the groin and in the abdomen and the two ran down street, who said Monday afternoon: "It is important that you know I shall die will do all that is claimed for it. I have tried all kinds of medicine for ten years and this is the first I have found that has helped me. I am now 65 years of age and have suffered constantly for ten years and the most of the time I have been in bed for months and sometimes I might have taken as much pain water for all the good they did me. Before I had taken this Cooper's New Discovery a week, I realized it was worth something. I have taken it a month and I am as well as I ever was in my life. I can eat anything I want to and sleep a horse. I feel like doing something all the time. Sometimes I feel like walk a block. When I first bought it I thought it was another fake, but now I know better. All the other stuff I have taken was worth nothing. I have spoken to my friends about what they saw for it."

BILL TO MAKE SHOSHONE FALLS IDAHO STATE PARK

(Special to the "News")

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 12.—Inside this morning reported from the committee of the whole consideration the passage of the Beatty bill providing for the state park at the Shoshone Falls on the Snake river. The bill was reported with amendments schools of the state which the law provides shall be sold at public auction at not less than $10 an acre, and the proceeds of the sale of which are to be used for the benefit of the state. The bill provides that the tract of land will be held and kept up by a representative of the state, but it is a little will then be granted.

The bill passed in the house was spent in committee of the whole. The bill provides that the commission is to leave on a trip of inspection to state parks.

BILL TO TAKE CENSUS OF JAPANESE IN CALIFORNIA

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 11.—The assembly suspended the rules this morning and passed Senator Wolfe's bill providing for a census of Japanese. Governor Gloyd, Senator Wolfe of Sacramento, sponsor of the bill, which was defeated yesterday by the request of President Roosevelt, spoke for the bill.

"I hope this measure will be adopted," said Senator Wolfe, "and I hope it will be adopted."

The bill was transmitted immediately to the senate and it is said it will be rushed through and be turned over to Gov. Gillett for signature.

LEPER ESCAPES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 12.—Samuel Vorwick, the leper who was locked up in the pest house on the quarantine island several days ago, escaped from the island last night and was found at his home in this city. He escaped from through a barrow window, and is now officially dead. He was found in the rear of the worst entangles of the deadly disease. Vorwick is a man who have had to deal with. Vorwick was a candy vendor on the streets for a number of years, and the discovery that he was afflicted with leprosy caused considerable commotion among those who had been accustomed to patronize him.

POWERS AND PRIVILEGES OF PRINCE REGENT OF CHINA

Washington, Feb. 12.—The powers and privileges of the prince regent of China, who is to represent the emperor during the latter's minority, are defined in an imperial rescript issued in December, which has reached the state department.

He is to have full power over the military and civil branches and the appointment and dismissal of officials. The rescript concludes with the statement that the establishment of a parliament is demonstrated by specific dispatches requiring the prince to be sent the inauguration. JOHN W. ALBAUGH DEAD.

New York, Feb. 12.—John W. Albaugh, a well known Philadelphia manager, died suddenly of heart disease, following an attack of acute indigestion, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jos. Bellamy, Twenty-fifth street, Brooklyn, last night.

Mr. Albaugh in his earlier days managed the Gallery Street & Albaugh theaters in Baltimore and built the Grand Opera house in the Columbia Opera House in Washington. His son, Harry, is a vaudeville actor, and Albaugh's wife, Mary Mitchell, was the famous Mrs. Mitchell, the Jesuits actress. About 15 years ago he built, and managed the Lyceum, Philadelphia's Lafayette theatre in Washington, now the Columbia theater, called out his interest therein after several years of ill health.

INDIANA LOCAL OPTION BILL.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—The Proctor-Thompson county local option repeal bill was passed by a vote of 52 to 48 in the house of representatives today. It was agreed upon as a compromise measure.

Champions of the bill predict it will be followed by similar bills introduced by the republicans.

The bill provides for incorporated towns and cities, permitting local prohibition in the rural districts, and allowing the sale of wine for sacramental and does away with subsons owned by breweries.

L. D. S. U. TEAM IS STILL LEADING

"U" Basketball Five Show Improvement but Lose To "S" Boys.

FORT LOSES TO 2D WARDERS.

Granite High Girls Defeat Faculty—Intermediates Beat Spartans in Junior League Game.

HOW THEY STAND.

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
L. D. S. U.	3	0	1.000
L. D. S. S.	1	1	.500
Fort	1	2	.333
Ft. W.	0	2	.000

The L. D. S. U. basketball team added another victory to its long record of prowess by defeating the State University five by a score of 37 to 15 in the best game played at the U. this season. The "Varsity" boys showed a marked and gratifying improvement in the championship of the Intercollegiate league this year.

In yesterday's game the "U" team showed considerable improvement over other games played and put up a good struggle. The closeness of the score indicates that the "S" boys have gone back to form as when they defeated the same team for the U. while West, the star of the "S" team, was absent. The lineup was as follows:

Utah	R. F.	Dunn
Adams	L. F.	Lund
Williams	C.	Anderson
Williams	R. G.	Anderson
Knowlton	L. G.	West
Hendricks	Sub.	Hendricks

Referee, Meisell; umpire, Fishburn. Field goals—Adams, 2; Pell, 1; Williams, 1; Lund, 3; Miller, 2; West, 1; Taylor, 1. Goals from foul—Adams, 3; Taylor, 1. Points awarded—Utah, 7, in Hoverland, 1.

FORT DOUGLAS LOSES.

The Fort Douglas team lost to the Twentieth Wards yesterday afternoon by the overwhelming score of 19 to 2. In spite of the big score the contest was quite interesting.

The teams lined up as follows:

Twentieth Ward	Ft. Douglas.
Stephenson	L. F.	Lyon
McClelland	R. F.	Sullivan
Mont	C.	Reed
Kerr	L. G.	Pulsipher
Rogers	R. G.	Hoover

INTERMEDIATES WIN.

The Intermediates defeated the Spartans at the Y. M. C. A. gym last evening by a score of 32 to 18 in a game of 20 to 15. The teams lined up as follows:

Intermediates.	Spartans.
Redden	L. F.	Morrison (C.)
Hoover (C.)	R. F.	Hoover (Capt.)

Referee—Gallacher; 4; Morrison, 4; Redden—Thunder.

EDDIE FOY LOSES TO "ARMLESS WONDER"

Eddie Foy, alias "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway," appeared in the laughing comedy part on Broadway. The dull audience at the Salt Lake theatre last night was the guest of Gilbert Wilkes and George Sutton, the noseless wonder of the age at Coney Island, who for the first time in his career, was beaten by a one-armed man, by a score of 20 to 15.

Foy made a spurt and turned on the "Irish" temperament, but the "Armless" Foy fingered him from the middle on the other, but the applause was not forthcoming. Foy's "Irish temperament" aided him, with his facial contortions, to make up for his similar loss.

Sutton enjoyed Foy's discomfiture as much as the audience, and when the two shook hands, Sutton's hand was as though he is without hands, the audience the one with noseless Sutton and the fact that he doesn't have to wear a mask, the other with Foy and the greatest mass of hair in America. Experts claim that because of his ability to put clothes on his head, the experts are more accurate than those of the other sporting men who are fans of the crowd, and that he is the wonderful shot White Sutton was making a run of 20 Foy walked up and knocked him the cheek, saying, "I might as well be a noseless—this way." Sutton was up.

In making quick curves shots Sutton is the greatest man in the world, and unofficial handicapper, and he will be playing as far as he is concerned every one is entitled to a free ticket and bridge cloth in order that the sulky Foy may be kept in the game. Sutton brought the Foyites to the rescue at the speed with which he closed the way for the one arm shot. Foy showed both the one and broke his sulky temper, and Sutton showed that he is a genius his own, and that he is a genius and applause so though he did not have a nose.

Sutton promised to bring Foy home and Mr. Foy was content with it. Foy too offers a discount to the Sutton contingent in New York who can beat Foy playing with one arm, and Foy will give a month's pay and the price of a ticket to any delegation of billiards with his turn before he leaves.

WHAT JEFF THINKS.

Fresno, Cal., Feb. 11.—James J. Jeffries, when informed of the offer of Eddie Foy to match his one-armed game against the world's champion, said: "I think that Mr. Foy's manager should offer to match his former opponent."

"Sensational stuff is Foy's stage slang," was his laconic comment.

It was stated by Guy Brown, who was sparring partner for Jeffries, that the former champion would be willing to fix a five mile handicap race with Foy, if one of the obstacles that the day blow is setting ready to receive the ring

BIG CITY MARKET IS NOW PROPOSED

Ogden Promoters Visit Council Committee to Discuss Plan.

TO BE CONSIDERED MONDAY

Site Proposed is Near Railway Lines —Estimated Cost of Project Is $200,000.

At the meeting of the committee on markets of the city council last evening there appeared James Johnson and D. P. Yeoell as representatives of an Ogden firm that is desirous of providing a general market place for this city. The men who will undertake to promote the scheme are David Spence, R. S. Bennett and H. R. Holmes, and whether or not their project will be carried out will depend entirely upon action of the mayor and city council.

The need of a market has long been felt, and it was only recently that members of the council met with members of the committee on the feasibility of providing a big market on Salt Lake South, into a market. The city owns property fronting on Fourth south with a right of way leading into the interior of the block. The market would by has an option on the land, and it is said that there is no doubt but it will be made for the purchase.

Now comes the Ogden men who propose to build a market. The site proposed is the block between Second and Third West and Second and Third streets, and extending through the block. The lot is 200 feet on the north and wide and 660 feet on the south. It is proposed to erect buildings to be used for commission merchants, one story, two story, heavy concrete, upper story brick, with basement, and occupying all the neighborhood of $200,000. The proposition is that the city and citizens are enthusiastic over the idea of a general market and convenient quarters and so soon as the money can be raised the buildings could be completed. Railroad facilities are good for the receipt of the houses. One side of the street is the Oregon Short Line and Union Pacific tracks, the side and sidewalks are 40 feet wide, and the street is 80 feet. The committee on markets is expected with the representative made, and the matter will go before the council for consideration.

THREE INCH TIRES.

The streets and municipal lawn committee of the city council decided last night to amend the wide tire ordinance to include a limit of three inches wide.

Such amendment was proposed by J. Ward Thomas, in opposition to the request of numerous teamsters, the contention being that a five inch tire would be sufficient for a load of 2000 pounds, while a four inch would be required for a load of three tons.

The matter will recommend, however, that bonuses be given until May 1 to place vehicles in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—Without rehearing words and dealing with nothing but the world of pleasure, the Lyceum Theater's "Bondage," which opened at the Salt Lake theater last night, is Florence Roberts in the leading role. Again she is a woman who has suffered and been an unfeeling and unsympathetic husband, a victim of a horrible drug habit of domestic infelicity. It would be hard to imagine a more unlovely, contrived and natural sequence, similar except the language changes in the lot of her in charge of a chancery tribunal.

Miss Roberts is a little of a gun player and the dark Mr. Bondage is a little of a gun fighter, and the House of Bondage is a little of a gun house, and the thirty slips over the door. It is the sort of a house that would be a good bid for recognition. All the accessories are there, and the fashion plates, under Lady Joan Meredyth, Miss Roberts does well. With the exception of those that are so good if not better, and they are Arthur Forrest as Sir Vincent Meredyth and Thurlow Bergen as Paul Ferrand, a Bohemian painter, the company is the Duchess of Bedell, Mary Bernard as Antoinette, Bondage's ward, Charlotte Ann also good.

Bondage's ward constitutes the principle plot of the story, and the drama is a drama of love, while with the wife it is a drama of hatred and cruelty as well. On this is based the title of the play, "The House of Bondage." Seymour Obermer, the author of the novel from which the play is taken among the most fashionable set in England, Mr. Obermer is a London surgeon, discovers that he is in love with the wife of Lady Joan Meredyth. When driven to the break he joins the Bohemian set and the intervening friendship of her husband and the Bohemian painter, Lady Joan sets sensation, and the tragedy begins from the position the wife is in. Murder.

The Vincent scheme suddenly it with a melody which only the advanced skill of the surgeon alone can alleviate. When he forces from the medical man's like the confession that he, too, loves Sir Vincent's wife, the latter is compelled to the operation which is performed. In a manner that is so unusual and so unlike the ordinary scheme detail of his dual life, tells the story of the surgeon's love and the poisoner code with the promise that Sir Vincent will change the dangerous laws of England so that each can go his way, without taking the law into their own hands, as he has been threatened.

With an effort at pleasure and the actors come close to voices' sense of life less than the Bondage. They call from the Bondage and four lines of the Bondage words is the word must. "It is a rotten system," says the duchess. It is an unwholesome place.

Government in its "Pure Food Law" does not "Tr-ce-r" or "guarantee" the purity of the goods manufactured in their sales—that is, the Government does not guarantee medicines that have been manufactured which shall be mentioned on the label, if they are produced from the preparations. Ely's Cream Balm, the well-known remedy for catarrh in the head, hay fever and nasal catarrh, does contain a single ingredient, and as the makers have simply to print the truth, it complies fully with all the requirements of the law.

POULTRYMEN'S ELECTION.

At last night's annual meeting of the Utah poultry association, held in the Commercial parlors, the treasury was found to be in satisfactory condition, and the following resulted as follows: James Hamilton, president; Joseph Adams, first vice president; George Ballard, second vice president; Mrs. Ellen Jensen, secretary; Joseph A. Allen, vice president from Davis county; George H. Ballard, vice president from Weber county; H. H. Cleveland, James C. Sender, secretary. Executive committee, Joseph Adams, Ed. Hoffman, James H. Adams and J. L. Ballard.

A MATTER OF CHOICE.

Really, as a matter of choice, we would rather have our cold sounds decent. It each than one sound, and it is a matter of choice, most people would prefer a cough that is decent. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, is a most pleasant cough medicine. It is not disagreeable, but pleasant to take. Its use promotes a free, easy, healthy cough, and quickly cures the cold. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
